Special Topics Course Descriptions Spring 2015

NOTE: If a course is mentioned in more than one category, e.g., in both ARCH 2 and Literary Inquiry or Literature and Cross-Cultural Studies, it fulfills only one of the two requirements. However, if a course that fulfills an ARCH or General Education Requirement (GER) is required for a major, it does fulfill both areas.

BU 391A Social Enterprise. Social entrepreneurship is a rapidly developing and changing business field in which business and nonprofit leaders design, grow, and lead mission-driven enterprises. As the traditional lines blur between nonprofit enterprises, government, and business, it is critical that business students understand the opportunities and challenges in this new landscape. Through guest speaker seminars, case study discussions, and field-based projects, this course will explore this emerging field. Students will also attend the Alleviating Poverty Through Entrepreneurship (APTE) Summit held on March 13–14 at The Ohio State University, and participate in teaching a Junior Achievement course on Entrepreneurship to elementary students at a Richmond Heights school.
M 7:15 PM - 9:45 PM 3 credits

EN 391A Major Author – Robert Frost This course will examine the poetry, essays and letters of Robert Frost along with select biographies and works of criticism. Prerequisite: EN 100/101 or 110. TR 10:00 AM - 11:15 AM 3 credits

EN 392A The Victorian Novel This course will chart the development and artistic achievement of the 19th century British novel by considering the dynamic works of writers such as Jane Austen, Charlotte Bronte, and Charles Dickens. Prerequisite: EN 100/101 or 110. MWF 9:30 AM - 10:20 AM 3 credits

HI 291 A Native American History. This course is a thematic survey of Native American history from pre-contact with Europeans until the present day. It will explore the various ways Native peoples have responded to colonial and later American, expansion within North America. Themes covered include pre-contact Native cultures, Native American responses to expanding European influence, Native wars with the United States government and relocation to reservations, the Red Power civil rights movement and present day Native American social and legal issues. Particular importance will be placed on indigenous tribes' legal relationships to colonial administrations and the United States' government, and how these relationships have changed and developed over time. Prerequisite: Sophomore status. MW 1:00 PM - 2:15 PM 3 credits

HI 391 History of India. This course will examine the history of the Indian subcontinent in the Indus Valley, beginning with Dravidian culture and progressing into the Aryan invasion of India around 1500 B.C.E., the introduction of the Vedas, and the rise of the Upanishadic worldview by 800 B.C.E. Moreover, it will depict Muslim influence in India during the 10th-17th centuries ending with the Mughal Empire. This course will trace the evolution of Indian nationalism beginning with the mid-19th century Indian Sepoy Mutiny and converging with ardent Indian Muslim/Hindu nationalists prior to the establishment of Indian independence. Focus on the impact of 18th-20th century British colonialism, Indian independence movements, and Muslim-Hindi relations during and after colonialism. Prerequisite: Sophomore status. TR 11:30 AM - 12:45 PM 3 credits

HI 392 A History of Southeast Asia. Southeast Asia exists today as an interesting mixture of Chinese, Indian, indigenous and European peoples, cultures, religions, cuisines and languages. The region is home to the most populous Muslim nation in the world, and has been spotlighted in the news due to recent political turmoil in East Timor, Myanmar and Thailand. For centuries the region of Southeast Asia has been a crossroads of international economic and cultural exchange. This course is an historical survey and will cover a time period from pre-colonial dynasties through the colonial period and into the modern era. Topics will include the interaction between local kingdoms and Chinese and Indian dynasties, European and American colonization, the Vietnam War and Cambodian genocide, and the recent economic development of the region. Prerequisite: Sophomore status. MW 12:00 Noon - 1:15 PM 3 credits

HI 393/TH 393 A Stepping Mindfully into World Religion. This interdisciplinary course is designed for students who wish to deepen their understanding of the similarities and differences between and among five major religious traditions: Christianity, Judaism, Islam, Buddhism and Hinduism. The course integrates mindfulness practice, a form of conscious quiet reflection and attentiveness to daily living, into the sessions. Students will explore the similarities and differences of the religious traditions in light of the theoretical beliefs, sacred literature or texts, religious practices, and the social structures of each tradition. The course of study will interrogate the problems and mysteries these traditions pursue in search of wisdom. In studying the wisdom of these traditions and engaging in mindfulness practice, it is hoped that students will find sources of meaning and values relevant to their lives today. Prerequisite: ARCH 1
TR 1:00PAM - 2:15 PM 3 credits

HI 394 Middle Eastern and Islamic Cultures. See department for course description. Prerequisite: Sophomore status. MWF 10:30-11:20 AM 3 credits

PH 391 A Books that Changed the World. The "Books That Changed the World" Honors-scholar seminar invites students to engage in thought-provoking analyses of philosophical and contemporary issues through the critical reading of timeless literature. Once a month, students join the college president, community leaders, and life-long learners at Notre Dame College's "Books That Changed the World" seminar meeting. These cross generational discussions are sure to stimulate, provoke, and challenge our thinking. Between the monthly discussions, students meet weekly in a graduate style colloquium where students share scholarly research on the books. Books being read in the spring 2015 seminar include: A Man for All Seasons by Robert Bolt, What Makes Sammy Run by Budd Schulberg, Selected Stories by Andre Dubus, and Team of Rivals by Doris Kearns Goodwin. Prerequisite: Honors Scholars only.
F 12:00 AM - 12:50 PM 3 credits

PO 491 A Political Advocacy. Political advocacy and leadership are highly valued in the profession of political science, criminal justice, public administration and public policy. This elective course provides the requisite knowledge, develops skills, and models behaviors so students can become political advocates and leaders in the profession. The course has three core areas of interest: the legislative process, the advocacy process, and leadership skills. To meet the learning objectives, students will complete written and verbal activities to assess knowledge, skills, and abilities and participate in a service learning activity at the Statehouse in Columbus. Prerequisite: Sophomore status. MW 8:00 AM - 9:15 AM 3 credits

RU 191 A Introduction to Russian. This course is an introduction to the Russian language and Russian culture through interactive and communicative reading, writing, listening and speaking activities to develop language and cultural proficiency. MWF 2:30 PM - 3:20 PM 3 credits
