

SPRING BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION ADJUNCT OPPORTUNITIES
August 31, 2020 – December 17, 2020

The business division is seeking adjuncts who are able to teach these evening courses on campus for Fall 2020:

BU 240 Management Principles 3 cr. An examination of the basic principles, processes and functions of management, including planning, organizing, leading and controlling. A look at contributions from key classical theorists and present applications of these theories. Topics also include ethics, globalization and decision-making. Application assignments are used to assist the development of student's written communication skills. Prerequisite: EN 110 or equivalent.

BU 345 Organizational Behavior 3 cr. Study of motivation, leadership, and other various factors which affect individual and group behaviors as they relate to performance, productivity and satisfaction in work organizations. Students analyze the application of these concepts in a number of organizations and examine the challenges and ethical concerns related to managing workers within a global and virtual work environment. Prerequisite: BU 240, junior standing

The successful candidate must have an MBA or Master's degree in a business discipline and experience teaching in the subject matter.

Please type "management adjunct or org behavior adjunct" in your subject line of your e-mail.
